Salary: £17,500.00 per annum
Location: Guildford area (Surrey)

Are you interested in supporting young people to reach their potential?

Or are you an experienced support worker seeking a new opportunity? Either way, we want to hear from you!

halow, is a vibrant organisation that provides various opportunities and support services for young people learning disabilities to access social activities and lead independent, fulfilling lives.

One of our many services is our Supported Living Service, which provides personalised support to our young people, within their own home environment (which is generally shared accommodation that is run by halow).

What does a Supported Living Buddy typically do?

halow 's Supported Living service supports young people with a learning disability to live independently in their own home and in the community.

halow Supported Living staff/Buddies enable and support young people to build their confidence and motivation and learn life skills (cooking and cleaning, money handling, maintaining relationships, keeping safe and healthy, jobs and volunteering) to lead an active and fulfilled life.

Through knowledgeable and caring support, halow 's Supported Living service ensures young people are empowered to live the life they choose, taking responsibility and positive risks to live life to the full.

What type of person makes a great Supported Living Buddy?

A great Supported Living Buddy is passionate about supporting people with learning disabilities to make positive choices. Our Buddies should also be outgoing, with excellent communication skills and a caring, patient nature.

At halow, we will consider applications from anyone who demonstrates a genuine desire to gain experience working within a charitable organisation and to work with young people with a learning disability. Although experience of working within a similar environment would be advantageous it isn't essential as full training will be provided.
